BRITAIN PAYS PART OF INTEREST

$30,000,000 Delivered To U. S. Through Morgan Firm Reduces Overdue Account and $75,000,000 More is Made Available.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Oct. 16.—The first payment by any of the Allied powers upon war loans of approximately $10,000,000 advanced by the United States was made by Great Britain today when the treasury department turned over $30,000,000 to the American government, through J. P. Morgan & Company at New York, American fiscal agent of the British government.

This is an installment upon overdue interest upon the $4,277,000,000 lent by the United States to Great Britain in war time loans and credits. It is believed by British government officials that the beginning of interest payments will go far towards unsharpening the inter-Allied debt tangle. Payments are to be made at intervals of six months.

The check is drawn against the British government's account with J. P. Morgan & Company, in favor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Great Britain will not commence payments upon the principal sum of the debt until after funding arrangements have been completed at Washington between the British debt-funding commission, headed by Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the exchequer, and the American debt-funding commission.

An appropriation of approximately $125,000,000 for payment of interest on the American debt had been made in the British budget so there is still a residue of $75,000,000 available for the second interest payment in April.

MRS. PLENZIG'S COOL DEFENSE

Says She Was Not "Caught With the Goods" at the Eichler But Was "Framed" by Husband's Detective.

How Mrs. Estelle Plenzig, pretty wife of William Plenzig of Beacon, trapped with a traveling salesman in a Kingston hotel, tried to keep her name clear by charging that she was the victim of a conspiracy concocted by her husband and attempted to place the blame on an innocent man, was unfolded in the supreme court here Saturday, says the Poughkeepsie Courier. The case awaits further developments.

Mrs. Plenzig's novel defense charged that Henry Ronk, an operative employed by the Weeks Detective Agency in Newburgh, lured her to the Kingston hotel with a story that her husband, instead of being on a camping trip, was there with another woman.

Witnesses for the husband established a perfect alibi for Ronk, showing that he was in Middletown on the night of the expose in the Kingston hotel.

Another witness, who was a member of Mrs. Plenzig's trip to Kingston, testified that the man she was with was a traveling salesman from Chicago.

Mrs. Plenzig never flinched when her defense so dramatically burst. Her eyes never left the bench as Justice Morgan, before whom the case was tried, said that apparently the wife's attempt to get out of the situation had failed.

Attorney Daniel Dugan, of Beacon, representing Mrs. Plenzig, asked more time in which to check up certain features of the case.

"Take all the time you want," said the court. "I do not want this man forced to live with a woman who is faithless nor do I want a shadow of doubt left if you still believe your client's story. We want the whole truth."

Plenzig, the story developed, planned to go camping in the Harlem valley on September 18 last. Previously he had suspected his wife of unfaithfulness and had engaged the Weeks Detective Agency to watch her movements. On the morning of September 18 he started on his trip by motor. He was late in getting started and only reached a point north of Fishkill late in the afternoon. Going to a farmhouse he telephoned the agency of his whereabouts and asked for news of his wife. He was told to return to Newburgh at once.

At Newburgh Plenzig met Detective Weeks, who told him that his wife had come to that city in the morning and had been about town most of the day with a strange man and that she and the man with another couple had left the city by motor, going north. Plenzig and Detective Weeks and a woman operative employed by the latter followed in another car and finally located Mrs. Plenzig and a man with the other couple at the Hotel Eichler. All were registered under assumed names. Mrs. Plenzig occupied a room with a man who signed the register as William H. Williams. The husband and his witnesses confronted the pair in the room.

THEY MUST PICK THE PERFECT CHILD

Five Doctors Named For That Dilemma—All Exposition Tents Up—First Crowd Was at Grounds Sunday.

The work for preparing the Kingston Exposition is progressing satisfactorily and by tonight all the tents will be erected and floors and booth frame work completed so that the exhibitors can start decorating their booths the first thing tomorrow morning and they are expected to have this work finished and their exhibits installed by 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon so that the janitors will have time to clean up the aisles and everything will be in readiness of the opening 7 o'clock Thursday evening.

The judges for the Perfect Child contest have been appointed. They are Doctors F. A. Johnston, Daniel Connelly, A. C. Gates, Mary Gage Day and Charles D. Carter. One half of the children entered will be asked to come to the Exposition on Monday, October 23rd at 4 p. m. and the remainder on Tuesday afternoon. Mothers of these children will receive letters from the Chamber of Commerce with passes designating which day they are to bring their children. From the charts prepared on those days showing the different measurements of each child the doctors will choose several of the most perfect children and these will be requested to come back on Friday afternoon, October 27th, for the final judging. The winners' names will be announced on Saturday and the prizes awarded at the evening session which will be the closing night of the Exposition.

Large crowds visited the Fair Grounds Sunday afternoon and although only a small part of the tents were up much surprise was shown at the size that the Exposition is going to be. There is no doubt about the great interest that the community is showing in this project and there will be something of interest in the exhibits and entertainment for everybody in the city, young and old, and the very nature of the attractions to be offered each evening and many afterwards will draw people again and again.

MAC NIDER OPENS CONVENTION WITH MILITANT ADDRESS

Legion a Dominant National Force and Nothing Can Prevent Bonus, He Says, Sharply Scoring by Implication President and Supporting Senators—Sprague Report, Denouncing Manner of Caring For Disabled Veterans, Approved.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New Orleans, Oct. 16.—While his "buddies" shouted and stamped their approval, retiring National Commander Hanford MacNider opened the fourth annual convention of the American Legion here today with a militant declaration that the soldiers' bonus fight has only just begun.

From out of the long, hard battle he and his aides directed unsuccessfully to put the "adjusted compensation" bill over the top at Washington, MacNider asserted that "no one man, untouched by war, without kin or kin to those who served, in one group, financial or otherwise, can stand between the wishes of the American people and the fulfillment of what they believe to be a just obligation."

He made no direct reference to the veto by President Harding of the McCumber-Fordney bonus measure nor to the little group of senators who sustained the veto, but he left no doubt as to whom he referred as he carefully aimed each of his barbed verbal shafts at the opponents of "adjusted compensation" for the nation's ex-service men.

"A great, well-financed attack by interests which we cannot help but feel are sordid and selfish, has given us one little setback but those who represent the people at Washington, are with us by great majorities," MacNider added as he dwelt upon the passage of the McCumber-Fordney bill by a vote of 333 to 70 in the house and 47 to 22 in the senate.

"We have only just started to fight," he said. "The 'adjusted compensation' legislation is right. We know it is right and right always prevails in America. It is not a question of raising the necessary funds. A maximum annual payment of $100,000,000 is not even an appreciable fraction of a $4,000,000,000 national budget. That is simply camouflage thrown up to hide the real issue."

"It is a question of promises unfulfilled, a question of whether the man who offered his life to his country in time of its need is to be left with the feeling that his country is unjust and ungrateful."

"That is not for the good of the nation, that is not the desire of the people back home and in a republic their will will be eventually carried out. That is our task and we shall accomplish it."

Upon the scathing condemnation of the national government's care of sick and disabled World War veterans and the biting criticisms of President Harding and his personal physician, Brig. General Charles E. Sawyer, chief coordinator of the federal board of hospitalization, contained in the 158-page report made public previously by A. A. Sprague of Chicago, chairman

ENTERING THRACE

400,000 Greeks Fleeing From That Territory Leaving Most of Property Behind.

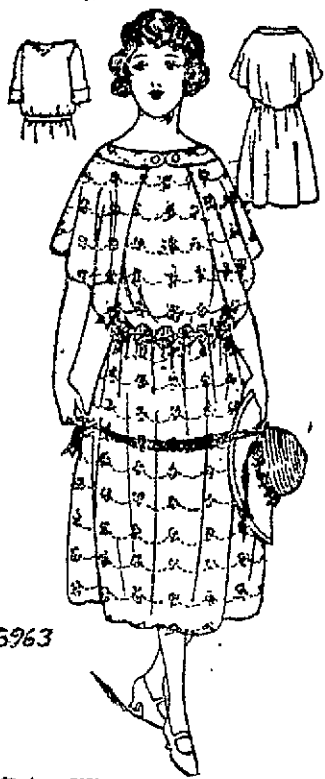

By Telegram to the Freeman, Constantinople, Oct. 16.—Twenty five hundred Turkish gendarmes crossed into Europe today for police duty in eastern Thrace, under Allied supervision.

Unconfirmed reports have been received here of massacres of Greek and Armenian Christians by Turks at Ezine, 26 miles south of Chanak. These reports are discredited here and it had previously been announced that all the Greeks were out of Anatolia, and Ezine lies in the north-western corner of Anatolia.

Evacuation of 400,000 Greeks from eastern Thrace is under way amidst great confusion. Railway stations and docks are besieged with Greek men, women and children seeking places on trains and boats. They are carrying with them such personal effects as they can, but most of their belongings have been left behind.

Turkish troops are reported to have destroyed the town of Kili, in the neutral zone, inhabited mainly by Greeks. Many Greeks are said to have been killed and others, including women, were carried off. The Greeks claim this destruction was the work of gendarmes bound for Thrace.

'SANDWICH' LONG IN DISPUTE

Invention of Toothsome Morsel Has Been Credited to Many, including the Great Napoleon.

Both Napoleon and Lord Sandwich have been given credit for inventing the sandwich, but Voltaire, in his history of Charles the Twelfth, king of Sweden, tells of how the king during his campaign in Poland and Russia never or seldom took time to sit down and eat his meals, but generally stood up, spread some butter on a piece of bread with his thumb and put a piece of meat, fish or cheese on top of the butter. This happened almost one hundred years before Napoleon.

And in 1762, or seven years before Napoleon was born, Edward Gibbon of "Decline and Fall" fame, noted in his journal under date of November 24: "I dined at the Cocoa Tree. That respectable body affords every evening a sight of truly English. Twenty or thirty of the first men in the kingdom supping at little tables upon a bit of cold meat or a sandwich!"

When Napoleon was two years old Foote introduced the word in a play of his, "The Maid of Bath," staged in 1771. But the origin of the word was traced by Pierre Jean Grosley in his "Londres," published in 1770. He resided in London in 1765, and refers to the word as having recently come into use. The title to authorship rests with the butler or attendant, who served thin slices of beef between thin slices of toast to John Montagu, fourth earl of Sandwich (1718-1792), while the latter was attending a prolonged session at the gaming table.

Origin of Once Popular Phrase. "Another country heard from." originated during the Hayes-Tilden combat as the result of the slow returns from contested Southern states.

Acts With Irresistible Power. No receptacle has ever been made with sufficient strength to resist the bursting power of frozen water.

A Failure.

"Snobleigh—And what did you find out about the family tree?"

Genealogist—That the crop was a failure.

The reason there is so much sadness in the world is that somewhere it is always time to get up in the morning.

What's going to be the penalty for bootlegging coal this winter?

When a man is courting a girl he just can't bear to have her out of his sight. When he's married to her a short time, she just won't let him get out of her sight.

Positively Nothing. "A bribe, sir? That's an ugly word."

"True." "Suppose I agree to do this for consideration?"

"Suits me. What is a syllable, more or less, between friends?"

Prayer of a Maiden. Dear Lord, I ask for nothing for myself—only please give mother a son-in-law.

Tough Luck. Agent—"But, mum. It's a shame to let your husband's life insurance lapse."

Lady (over wash tub)—"I'll not pay another cent. I've paid regular for eight years and I've had no luck yet."

Fine Art of Quitting. The world despises every kind of a quitter—except the orator, preacher or news writer who knows how to quit when his message is delivered. Such a quitter is a boon and a benediction to a weary world slopping over with verbosity.

Fooled Him. "The thief took my watch, my purse, my pocket book, in short, everything."

"But I thought you carried a loaded revolver?"

"I do—but he didn't find that."

An Extremist. "Mrs. Exe is a great stickler for form and ceremony, isn't she?"

"I should say so. Why, that woman would insist on dressing up to entertain an idea."

One reason a fellow doesn't attract much attention after he is dead is the ad isn't changed often enough on his tombstone.

One of the prominent evils that the country is suffering from now is tough roast beef.

An erudite young man has invented an invention, reports the Topeka Pink Rag. He has placed mirrors at the intersections where collisions are likely, with the idea that a motorist may see a car coming from the side street. As a matter of fact, explains the Rag, the motorist sees himself coming at himself—and has a fit.

He who swells in prosperity will shrink in adversity.

Scientists say the earth is cooling off slowly and in these hectic days an exchange mops its brow metaphorically and heartily agrees.

MERCHANDISE CAR LOADING

HEAVIEST IN HISTORY

In the week ending September 30th the American Railway Association reports that 589,098 cars were loaded with merchandise and miscellaneous freight. This is the greatest number in the history of the roads.

It was 36,735 in excess of the same week last year, and 39,061 cars more than the corresponding week in 1920, in which year the volume of all traffic handled by the railroads was the heaviest in their history.

Loading of all commodities, according to the latest figures available, are at the present time within 3 per cent of the record loading of 1920.

Fish Far From Home.

Indians at Glacier Park, Mont., caught in Iceberg lake a species of trout identified as the Salvelinus Rossi, which hitherto has been known to exist only in the Arctic ocean, and geologists in this territory are convinced this strange body of water in Glacier National park is connected subterraneously with the icy waters of the Far North. This is the second species of this trout taken from Iceberg lake, the other "furlike clad" member of the flony tribe having been hooked by a fly fisherman about ten years ago. The specimen caught measures slightly over two feet from nose to the fork in its tail.

LILLOTTE RECITAL AT HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY

A large attendance is expected at the recital to be given on Friday evening at the high school auditorium by Mamie English Lillotte. Miss Lillotte was a personal friend of James Whitcomb Riley and in his poems which she recites, she has had the benefit of his personal criticism and suggestion. She undoubtedly approaches nearer to his original conception of his poems than any other reader. She is a graduate of the Curry School of Expression, Boston, and is the head of the Dramatic Art Department of Indianapolis Conservatory of Music. She has been on the stage with Dustin Farnum, William Farnum, Nance O'Neil and others in "The Virginian," "Camille," "The Little Rebel," and other plays. She has been recalled for return performances in 100 of our large eastern cities where she has given recitals in the last two seasons.

All Fat People
Should Know This

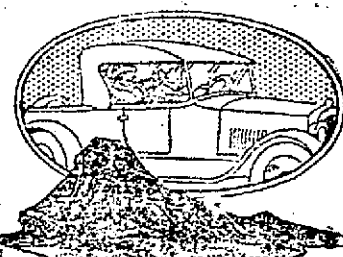

Fat people owe a debt of gratitude to the author of the now famous Marmola Prescription, and are still more indebted for the reduction of this harmful, effective obesity remedy to tablet form. Marmola Prescription Tablets can be obtained at all drug stores the world over at the reasonable price of one dollar for a case, or you can secure them direct on receipt of price from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich. This now leaves no excuse for idling, or violent exercise for the reduction of the overfat body to normal.

Miss Mary Hone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus C. Hone, of New York, and granddaughter of a former mayor of New York, Philip Hone, is the youngest of the society debutantes to make her stage debut in New York, playing the role of Helena in the new play, "R. U. R." She is only 17, a graduate of Rosemary School, Greenwich, Conn.

UNUSUAL WORDS.

To legions of writers, from the great novelist and essayist of style down to the humblest reporter, the choice of words is a matter of practical importance. Of interest to very many, therefore, will be the warning against unusual words in a new work on the fundamentals of fiction writing, as follows. "Consider how tiny a thing is capable of pricking the bubble of illusion, of jerking the reader for a brief instant back into his real world. If in reading a story you come upon such words as 'pringle,' 'anodic,' 'calpash,' 'mansuetude,' 'spiracle,' 'frigorific,' 'cambiast,' 'ortelle,' you probably find it unfamiliar, and if so of course you know that you do. Therein lies the breaking of the illusion. However brief the total time occupied by your reaction to the word, you paused, gave attention to it,—not to the story. Perhaps your pause totalled only a few seconds or a fraction of one second, but—the illusion was broken and had to be rebuilt."

Pedantry of this brand is a mistake in any kind of literary composition. The writer who searches the unabridged for words likely to stump the best educated of readers is likely to defeat his own ends. On the other hand, the writer of too limited vocabulary will inevitably weary the intelligent reader by the baldness of his diction. The golden mean is achieved when, after mastering a vocabulary of great extent and richness, the writer employs it freely yet with great care in order to convey the precise meaning intended. Then the context will "put across" the idea expressed even when the reader is confronted with well chosen words beyond his ken with which he ought to become acquainted.

ARTISTIC SWINE GROWERS.

There is something in most of us that craves the pig, and we are ready to pay tribute to the swine grower as a good citizen who performs a useful public service while he has an eye to his own income. But probably no lover of a toothsome pork chop has heretofore thought of the swine grower as an artist. It remained for Secretary Wallace to call him that. The Secretary of Agriculture combines practical and technical qualifications with an imagination enabling him to add interest if not dignity to the commonplace. At the recent convention of the Swine Growers' Association at Peoria, Ill., he not only spoke of the "swine crop" as a "great national condensing factory," a "great national storage reservoir" of food reserves, and stated that during the last year and a half American hogs had paid more than double for the corn they ate, but, addressing the swine growers themselves with a Vergilian loftiness of style, he said:

AN AMBITIOUS CROOK.

A "well-known author" has published and roused for the authenticity of the following letter by a young man of a varied experience: "I would like to know if you think it would be worth while for me to write a book. I have been about as rotten as any one man can be and live, at 23 years of age I have done about everything crooked that is to be done. To make myself plain, I will tell you of a partial list of the things I have done. I have been a pimp, a stick-up, a dip, a gatsman, a dope, a peister twister, a petesman, a smuggler, a drunkard and an atheist. My ambition has always turned more or less toward writing and I have made it a point to keep up a literary taste. If it is not too much trouble would you let me have

PROTEST TRANSFER HERE OF PRIEST

Polish Parishioners Defy Efforts of Police to Clear Streets Around New York Church of the Rev. Father Bialdys.

The New York Times of Sunday contained the following:

A mob of men, women and children defied the police for three hours yesterday morning by refusing to leave the neighborhood of St. Stanislaus's Polish Roman Catholic Church, in Seventh street, between First avenue and Avenue A, where they had gathered to protest against the transfer by Archbishop Hayes of their pastor, the Rev. Ignace Biadysa.

Trouble which has been brewing in the church, according to report, came to a head when the news spread that the Rev. Father Bialdya, transferred by order of Archbishop Hayes to Kingston, N. Y., would begin his journey to his new post yesterday morning. At 7 o'clock the crowd began to picket the rectory in an effort to prevent the departure of the popular priest.

In a few minutes the crowd became so great that the police reserves from the East Fifth street station was hurried to the scene. They found the street so packed that the motor car which had come to take the Rev. Father Bialdya to the station was unable to get near the rectory. Men and women clung to the iron railing about the church in an effort to prevent the police from clearing the street. The police were finally compelled to use force to disperse the crowd.

VERDICT AGAINST DEAF MUTE IN A SUIT FOR SLANDER

to Telegraph to The Freeman.
Akron, O. Oct. 16.—Francis Zitnik, has been awarded a $15,000 verdict against George W. Priggs in Judge E. H. Boylan's court here. Both are deaf mutes. Zitnik sued for damages, alleging that Priggs had uttered false and slanderous finger talk about plaintiff in the mute colony of Akron, to the effect that Zitnik was a thief and had conspired to injure the business of the Silent Cooperative Grocery Company.

Testimony to the mixed jury, attorneys' arguments and the judge's charge were interpreted in the sign language for Zitnik by an expert. The suit was contested.

ACCORD.

Accord, Oct. 16.—The Ulster County Welfare Council will meet at Accord Friday evening, October 20, at 7:30, in the M. E. Hall. Why This Dish

Why do millions of mothers start their children's days on oats?

Because oats form the premier food.

Their energy value is 1810 calories per pound.

They supply 16 elements which growing children need.

They are rich in minerals.

They supply the whole-grain vitamins.

Why do we make a special grade and call them Mother's Oats?

And why do so many mothers serve them?

Because oats differ in flavor. Some are delicious, some are not.

Mothers want the flavory oats, so we pick them out and flake them.

If you want to make the oat dish welcome, always serve Mother's Oats.

MOTHER'S OATS

The luxury oats—large, luscious flakes

Yet the cost is only one-half cent per dish. Be careful to get this brand.

SCANLAN HERE AGAIN THURSDAY

Walter Scanlan, actor-singer, well known here, will be the attraction at the Kingston Opera House Thursday afternoon and evening in a new comedy-drama of love and songs, entitled "Maytime in Erin," his songs being the principal feature of the program. The author, Edward E. Rose, has laid the plot in Ireland and chosen one of the most picturesque spots, Ballybane, Kilkenny County, Ireland, for his settings. The story is built around Miles O'Dowd, a young Irish attorney, bent more on pleasure than devotion to law, when his half-sister, Molly Flynn, a cranky old maid, hopes to make a man out of, by secretly arranging a match for him with Mrs. Murry, a young widow, and schemes with her to take care of her cottage and Miles during her absence. In the role of O'Dowd Mr. Scanlan is said to eclipse all former ones in which he has appeared.

The production is said to be massive and costly. The cast includes the following: Walter Scanlan, Miss Betty Brown, Bennett R. Finn, Patrick Rafferty, Lucille Lennon, May Gerald, George Kershaw, Robert McCloskey, Daniel Kelly. Seat sale opens tomorrow.

EX-KAISER AND ELDEST SON REPORTED ILL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, Oct. 16.—Both the ex-Kaiser and the former German crown prince were reported ill today. Word from Doorn said that the ex-Kaiser's condition is not serious and that members of his household believe that his illness will not interfere with his marriage plans. The ex-crown prince is in more serious condition. He is reported to be threatened with serious lung trouble, due to the damp climate in Wieringen Island, his place of exile.

As a result of the investigation into the mysterious murders of the Rev. E. W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, his choir leader, Nicholas Bahmer, former saloon keeper of New Brunswick, N. J., has been placed behind bars on serious charges made by his daughter, Pearl, who found the bodies. Bahmer is being questioned as to his whereabouts on the night of the murder.

Care of Pet Birds.

"People make too much fuss over their pet birds. They have too many rules and too little common sense," says an expert on the care of house pets.

"There are really no rules about taking care of pets in the summer except such rules as would apply equally well to a person. Feed more salad, most any kind. Feed fruit in season, a small amount. Be extra careful about good drinking water—that's all anybody can do for a canary or a parrot.

"Air is good for a bird. It can hang outdoors. But direct drafts must be avoided."

Environment Affects Law. Blackstone states that in the Isle of Man, to take away a horse or ox was no felony, but merely a trespass. There was no way to conceal them in this limited territory or carry them off. Because successful stealing of large animals was difficult, the punishment was light. But to steal a pig or fowl, which was easily done, was punishable by death. The environment affected the laws.

UNITED LUTHERAN CHURCH CONVENTION

Youngest But Numerically Large Merged Denominational Body to Consider Important Matters at Buffalo.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Buffalo, Oct. 16.—More problems of world wide importance in religious circles than have come before the United Lutheran Church at any time in its four years of existence will be brought up for solutions at the biennial convention of that organization at Buffalo, N. Y., beginning October 17 and closing October 20. The organization of the Lutheran Church is such that final authority on all disputed matters is vested in the delegates to its conventions. During the time between conventions matters needing immediate decision are handled by the officers of the organization or by the executive board.

When the delegates arrive in Buffalo they will be asked to decide the exact stand of the United Lutheran Church upon the matter of linking up with the Federal Council of Churches, with whom they now enjoy a "consultative relationship," with the world conference on faith and order, and with the universal conference on Life and Work. They will be asked to decide whether their church shall enter into relationship with other denominations on the mission field of India, and with missionary societies of Great Britain, for the establishing of a great Christian university in South India. They will be asked to give their sanction to an arrangement which has been entered into for close interrelationship of their organization with the Lutheran Church of Hungary, and a similar proposed arrangement for the Lutheran Church of Czechoslovakia. At this convention delegates must be elected to represent the United Lutheran Church at the first Lutheran world convention to be held next summer at Wittenberg, Germany, and must be instructed in the manner in which they will vote upon the world problems which will arise for solution. The convention must also vote upon the proposal to extend the work of foreign missions into China, and into the sections of Mexico settled by German-Russian Lutherans, and to increase materially the work of church building in the western provinces of Canada.

A vote will be taken upon authorizing another great campaign for relief funds to be applied in Russia and central Europe by the National Lutheran Council in cooperation with the American Relief Administration. The church will be asked to adopt a more sympathetic attitude toward the home mission work among the negroes. A decision must be reached upon granting permission to the Synod of the Northwest to move its Theological Seminary from Fargo, N. D., to St. Paul, Minn., which it has voted to do in direct opposition to the expressed desire of a special commission of the United Lutheran Church. Three merger district synods will apply for admittance—one in Ohio, one in Virginia and Tennessee, and one in North Carolina. It is proposed that all district synods be urged to appoint lay readers in churches in which pulpits are vacant, and to make more general use of laymen in a broad way. It is further urged that theological students be generally used for supply work during vacations, that deacons be trained for all local missionary operations and that corporations be appointed to work in all localities.

In addition to these matters of broad interest many recommendations will be presented for vote by the following specialized boards and committees: Commission on Adjudication, the boards of Education, Publication, Home Missions and Church Extension, Inner Missions, West Indies Missions, Immigrants Missions, Ministerial Relief, the Parish and Church School Board, the Laymen's Missionary Movement, the committees on Church Music, Church Architecture, Army and Navy Chaplains, Evangelism, Jewish Missions, Boy's Work, Social and Moral Welfare, and the Lutheran Historical Society, and various others.

The delegates to the convention, of whom there will be more than 1,000, represent every district synod and many congregations distributed over 40 states of the union and six provinces of Canada. The delegate from Kingston is the Rev. A. Schmidt-konz, New York Ministerium, with Fred Walter alternate, of the delegation of the New York and New England Synod.

The United Lutheran Church was formed in New York city in 1918 through the merging of three synodical groups—the General Council, the General Synod, and the United Synod of the south. Numerically it is the largest Lutheran body in America. Statistics show a baptized membership of 1,250,000 and a confirmed, or active membership of over 820,000. It is composed of 36 constituent synods reaching into practically every state and having churches in Canada and the West Indies. Its educational system comprises 13 seminaries, 20 colleges, and 7 academies, with a total valuation of $15,000,000. Its foreign mission work is conducted in Africa, India, Japan, and South America, with an annual expenditure totaling $700,000. The total value of church property and endowment is $80,000,000. The United Lutheran Church, through its synodical constituents, is the oldest Lutheran body in America. It dates back to the time when the Dutch Lutherans settled in New York in 1623, and the Swedish Lutherans settled on the Delaware in 1638, and the Salzburgers came to Georgia and the Carolinas in 1734.

Two conventions of the United Lutheran Church have so far been held, the first in New York City in November, 1918, the church being organized amid the shouts and rejoicings of Armistice Day, and the second in 1920 in Washington, D. C. The first biennial was devoted largely to correlating the boards and committees of the combining synods. The second has been one of reaching out, and expanding. The progress of the past two years has proved beyond

YEAST RAISED TREE EASILY

Raiser Turk's Life Saved by His Quick Wit and the Marvelous Efficiency of His Ma's Favorite Yeast Recipe—A Gallusper Tale.

The discussion that night around the camp fire at the Noodboy hunting shack in the mountains had revolved around the prospects of turning out another championship Gallusper combination in the Mountain League next season. Captain Ralph Noodboy, the Biven boys, Stink and Zink, and Raiser Turk had been spending a month in the mountains since the close of the season and had not grown tired of each other's company any yet.

From baseball the talk had drifted to love and marriage, and the question was discussed as to whether a man was happier single or married, and had reached the conclusion that it all depended on the point of view. Noodboy had closed the argument by saying "If you think you are better off married than single why then you are."

"Huh," grunted Raiser Turk scoffingly, but being too sleepy to continue the argument he had retired to bed, little realizing the thrilling experience that the morrow would bring forth.

The next day Raiser Turk left the others at the shack and with a book under his arm he rambled several miles from the others to spend a quiet day alone by himself. "It does a man good," he had said, "to get away and commune with nature."

The spot selected for the communication was in a large open field in which was standing a small tree about ten feet in height which cast just enough shade to ward off the early morning sun. Raiser's book did not prove as interesting as he had thought and he soon dozed off, but was awakened by an angry bell.

Startled, he glanced up and about two hundred feet away he saw an angry bull headed in his general direction. Casting a hurried glance around he saw that the bull would reach him before he could escape.

Then he was seized with a brilliant inspiration and reaching into his pocket he withdrew several cakes of his mother's famous yeast, made from her own private recipe. Digging around the roots of the tree he planted the yeast cakes and then hastily covered them over with earth.

So marvelously efficient was the recipe that the yeast caused the tree to begin to sprout at an amazing rate and before the bull could reach Turk the tree had grown to a height of twenty-five feet and the bull found Raiser roosting comfortably in the branches of it.

Jubilant over his narrow escape Raiser still clung to his perch as the bull had refused to leave the scene, and in half an hour the tree had reached its growth and towered forty feet in the air.

Unfortunately for Raiser the unprecedented growth of the tree caused it to rot quickly and before he realized the situation the tree suddenly collapsed and fell earthward.

Turk with a wild yell clung to the heavy branch and in falling one end of the branch hit the bull on the head, stunning it.

Before the animal came too Raiser had made good his escape.

MARINE BAND WILL DISPEL POPULAR MISCONCEPTIONS.

Many people have ideas of a military band which are either exaggerated in romance or unduly humble in their practical limitations. One idea or a military band is that it dashes boldly forward in front of an army conspicuously attired and making all possible noise, in order to show an enemy from what quarter an attack may be expected. The contrary extreme of impression is that its function is confined strictly to playing dance music for the benefit of parties attended by Washington's official society. The latter duty is sometimes a pleasant incident of the Marine Band's experience, but the trombone has never yet been called upon to hurl itself in defiance upon the bayonet of an advancing foe. The educational function of the Marine Band is expressed in its concert performances, not only before the capitol and in the White House grounds at Washington, D. C., but in even a great degree on tour where its finest attainments are more readily discernible to the alert ear through the advantage of playing in an auditorium. The evening program for the Marine Band recital in this city on Sunday, October 29, in the armory may be taken as an example of the educational possibilities of this superb organization. The full program will be published later.

New Idea for Road Building. Certain English engineers are advocating the general installation of roads which are concave, and drain to the center instead of toward the sides, as is usually found under ordinary conditions.

DODGE BROTHERS BUSINESS COUPE

With this coupe Dodge Brothers have proved once for all that a closed car can be as sturdy and practically as inexpensive as an open roadster.

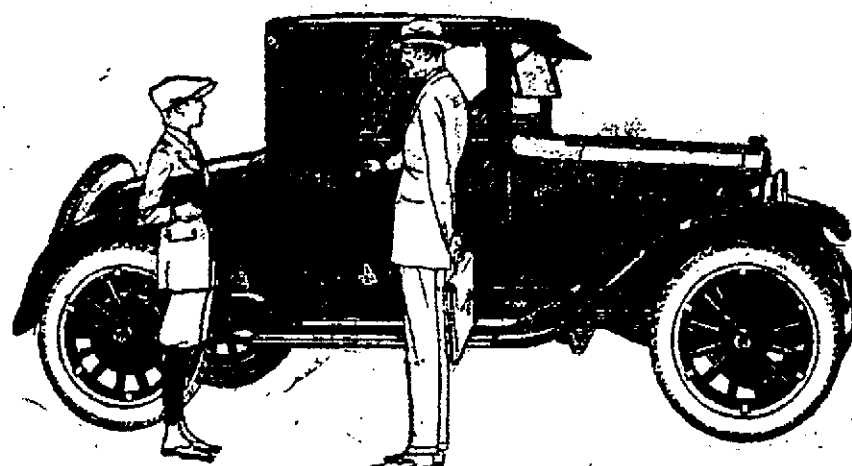

This is largely due to the all-steel body—the first ever marketed—which admits of lower cost of manufacture through standardized machine production. Unlike wood, the steel surface will take a finish of enamel baked on at high temperature. This process results in a permanent lustre, and eliminates the trouble and expense of repainting.

The wide straight seat is upholstered in genuine Spanish blue leather, durable and readily cleaned.

UNCLE DICK UNDULY EXCITED

Took Aunt Mary Some Little Time to Understand the Matter, and Then, Action!

"I don't know what we are coming to," said Uncle Dick Fowler, as he surveyed a sheet of thin paper, which had accompanied a periodical sent to Aunt Mary by their daughter in New York.

"What's the matter now?" asked Aunt Mary tranquilly. "What are you doing with that sheet of paper, Dick, and where are your specs?"

"I'm huntin' for 'em now," said Uncle Dick, excitedly, "and I suppose this here," shaking the paper, "is a new map, and the way it's cut up by the railroads is a shame and a disgrace! I don't see how there's room left for a decent house lot in the whole state."

"Well, now, find your specs and read what it says," counseled Aunt Mary, abandoning her socks to look over Uncle Dick's shoulder. "Perhaps they're only prospecting the roads as yet; maybe they won't be built any more'n some o' these western towns that's laid out all so pretty on paper, and nowhere else. Read what it says, father."

"It says," faltered Uncle Dick, with a confused expression on his face, "Pattern of skirt and jacket on page

"Here, you give it to me!" commanded Aunt Mary, and she departed to spread Uncle Dick's supposed railroad map on the table, while he was left to ponder on the wonderful works of man—and women.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

PROUD COAL CARS

"We're proud," said the pieces of coal in one of the coal cars, and then all the coal said in its dark, coal fashion:

"We're all proud." A little fairy had come a-flying along the country-side and had perched herself upon one of the coal cars which was being pulled along, together with many other coal cars, by three engines.

Now the fairy was wearing a long black cape and a black hood and when people were in sight she hid her face in her hood so that it could not be seen.

She was a very shy little fairy. No one could notice her as it was and she had come to talk to the pieces of coal.

She had seen so many coal cars traveling along all through the summer that she had wondered how the coal liked journeys.

So the Fairy Queen had given the magic wand which would make everything talk and the fairy was now on the coal cars as I've said.

"Oh, yes, we're very proud," the pieces of coal said again.

"Now you know," they continued, "that this whole train—all these coal cars are a part of a freight train. We are so many in numbers and we weigh so much that it takes three engines, as you see, to pull us."

"That makes us very proud. And coal is important. We know that, but we like to have others see our importance."

"We travel along through the country quite free of charge. Some one may pay for our journeys—some unknown, kind benefactor."

"A benefactor is some one who does kind things like that or who gives presents."

"So it may be that a benefactor is giving us our traveling expenses as his share in the honor to be shown the coal family."

"We're not sure about that, but it makes no difference."

"The main thing is we are traveling and we do not have to pay for it ourselves."

"It is just as well, of course, for we haven't any money and we haven't any purses and we haven't any pockets. But though we haven't any money we are worth money and that is very fine."

"It's just as though some one, who was very rich went a-walking without a pocket book. That person would be worth the money, but wouldn't have it along with him or with her."

"So it is with us."

"But we're particularly proud not only of the three engines and the fact that we make up almost a mile of trains and the fact that there are many coal trains going along all the time enjoying the scenery—but we have something else of which to be proud."

"Tell me that," urged the fairy.

"You've heard the bell ring at the railroad crossings, haven't you, fairy?"

"Yes," said the fairy, "I have."

"That is to warn people that there is a railroad crossing and that we're coming along."

"Sometimes there is a flag waved at our approach. But this isn't the greatest compliment of all. Oh no, there is another we yet have to tell you about."

"We make the motor cars or automobiles wait for us. Yes, indeed, we do that."

"They may be very proud and very fine, but we too go a-traveling and when we do we are given the right of way along the road we mean to go."

"And sometimes cars and cars have gone by with coal, one train after another, and that makes the coal proud for you see though there is nothing new about coal it's important, and it has every reason for being proud."

"I quite understand," the fairy said, "and I don't wonder you are proud."

Two Hatches of Pigs. A young farmer (age four) came running to the house and excitedly exclaimed: "Mamma, we have 15 new tiny baby piglets."

Mother (also a little excited)—All with one mamma pig?

Young Farmer—No; there has been two hatches.

Cross-Eyed Bear. Elsie—Mamma, I've named my cross-eyed Teddy bear "Gladly."

Mother—Wherever did you name it "Gladly" for?

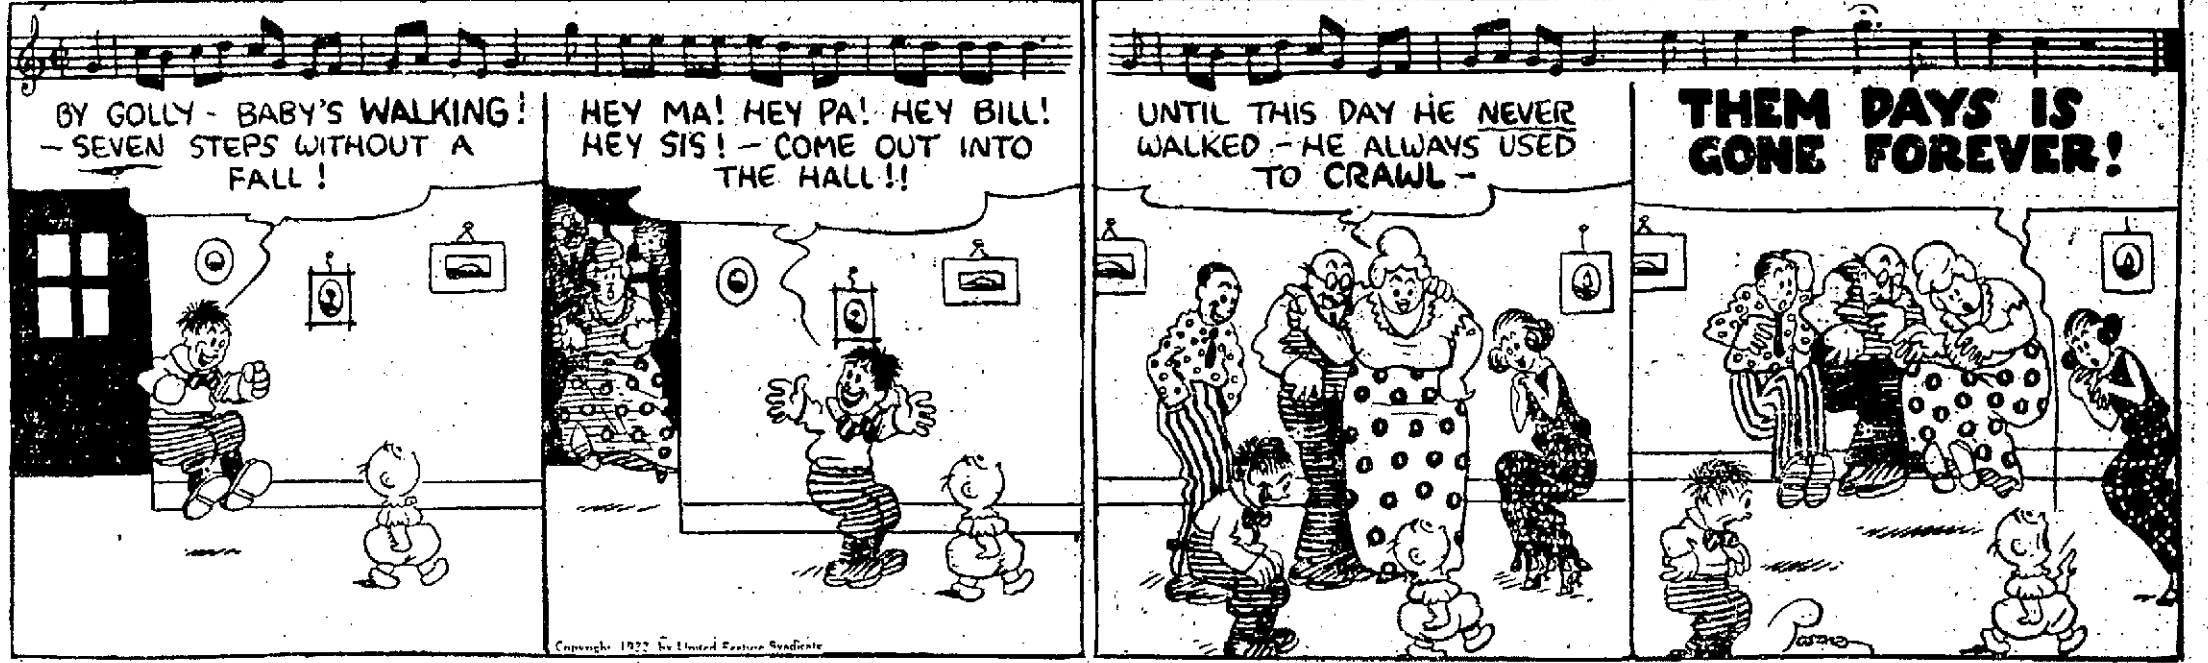

Elsie—Why, in Sunday school we were singing "Gladly a Crossed Bear."

O'KEEPSIE WON SATURDAY GAME

Score—Kingston 14, Poughkeepsie 13. Pouch or Defense Unit: Third Quarter, When They Push Ball Over.

The Kingston High School football team dropped down, instead of going the ladder to football fame Saturday afternoon when it lost to Poughkeepsie High School 14-13. The local team displayed the same aggressiveness that characterized their play in the early part of the season. The line was very weak, particularly in the first half, and it seemed to be practically impossible for them to either make a hole for the backs or keep the Poughkeepsie team from making a hole for their backs.

Whether or not the teaming they played Saturday will do them any good remains to be seen but the members of the team will certainly have to get to work and play football if they expect to beat Newburgh, which is supposed to be stronger yet than Poughkeepsie, on Saturday.

In the backfield Vogt starred with his punting and passing, passing game and Darns with his defense work. Anderson, who was switched from end to halfback in the second half, also did some excellent work along the line. On the line McLean played the best game, getting good share of the tackles. It might be said that the other members of the team also played a creditable game as individuals, with one or two exceptions, but the team as a whole played a mighty poor game in the third quarter.

For Poughkeepsie, Bruno and Campbell starred in the backfield and Cabell and Skinner on the line. The Poughkeepsie team worked like a well oiled machine throughout the entire game and were the man who was carrying the ball some beautiful interference.

Kingston won the toss and chose to defend the upper goal, while Poughkeepsie chose to kick to Kingston. Palmer kicked to Kingston's twenty yard line. Vogt was forced to punt on the fourth down and he advanced the punt to Kingston's twenty yard line. Swenson and Hill then carried the ball one and five yards respectively. Campbell then threw a forward pass to Skinner, who caught it and carried the ball up to the one yard line and Campbell carried the ball over for the first touchdown of the game after only four minutes and twenty seconds of play. Campbell also scored the extra point by a neat drop kick. Vogt received Poughkeepsie's kick off and advanced the ball twenty yards. Kingston then began a series of fumbles which went a long way towards sealing its defeat. Bruno recovered the first fumble and then carried the ball six yards through right tackle, which was followed by a three yard gain through the line with Hill carrying the ball. Poughkeepsie then fumbled and Colvin recovered. Vogt punted 50 yards to the fourth down and Poughkeepsie failed to advance it for any considerable distance. The ball see-sawed this way down the field for the rest of the quarter, which was ended with the ball in Poughkeepsie's possession and the score 7-0 in favor of the Bridge City team.

Campbell opened the next quarter with a forty yard punt which was taken back twenty yards by Vogt. Vogt then punted forty-five yards to Kingston's fourth down which was put down seven yards by Bruno. Poughkeepsie then made its second first down of the game by a series of plunges through the line. Campbell then completed a forward to Hill which netted Poughkeepsie 18 yards. However on the next four downs Poughkeepsie failed to gain the required distance of ten yards and the ball went to Kingston. On Kingston's third down Vogt punted for 35 yards. At this point in the proceedings Anderson was knocked out and Perlman substituted for him. Bruno then made 9 yards on two consecutive plays and Campbell carried the ball over for the third first down which Poughkeepsie had made through the line. Campbell then threw a pass to Bruno which netted Poughkeepsie 35 yards. Poughkeepsie was unable to gain on the next three downs and as a result was forced to punt on the fourth down. Kingston blocked the punt, which was recovered by Bruno. Cabell then completed a forward from Campbell which netted Poughkeepsie another 15 yards and brought the ball up to Kingston's ten yard line. By a series of line plunges Bruno carried the ball over for Poughkeepsie's second touchdown. Campbell failed to kick the extra point. The half ended soon after with the ball in Kingston's possession and the score 13-0 in favor of the Bridge City team.

Kingston started off the third quarter with a rush, determined if possible to save the game which it had already lost in the first half. At the start Poughkeepsie made one first down but then Kingston with H. Anderson featuring made Kingston's first first down. However, the Poughkeepsie line held for the next three downs and Vogt was forced to punt on the fourth. The punt went for 40 yards and was fumbled by Poughkeepsie and recovered by Kingston on Poughkeepsie's 10 yard line. Here the Poughkeepsie line again held Kingston and the local team lost the ball on downs. Poughkeepsie then punted about thirty yards but Vogt carried the ball back to the 12 yard line. After a series of line plunges Davis carried the ball over for Kingston's one tally as Vogt failed to score the extra point by a placement kick. The third quarter ended with the ball in Kingston's possession on Poughkeepsie's 18 yard line and the score 13-6.

Although within scoring distance at times Kingston did not seem to have the punch to put the ball over during the last quarter and the game ended with the ball on the 40 yard line and the score still 13-6.

SKILLYPOT HAS MADE LAST TRIP

The famous old Skillypot made her last trip, not to again resume running between Sleightsburgh and Rondout, Saturday night. It was expected that the famous old craft would have stopped running some weeks ago, but the matter was delayed until the damage commissioners could file their oaths of office. The Skillypot is now berthed on the Sleightsburgh side of the creek, and the entrances to the ferry on both sides of the creek have been closed by erecting a board railing. Just what final disposition will be made of the old craft is not known.

In loving memory of John H. Windrum, who passed to the greater life October 16, 1918.

There are things which live forever. But the greatest of these is love. There are dear ones we forget never. Though far off in heaven above.

So our heart and mind will cherish In that love that will never die. The memory that will not perish Of our boy who has gone on high.

Some day we shall meet each other. And how sweet then 'twill be to find That the love that lives forever Will our hearts eternally bind.

Loving thoughts of husband, Michael A. Stankovich, Just when our hopes were the bright-est.

Just when his thoughts were the best. He was called from this earthly home To the home of eternal rest. No one knows the silent heartache Only those who have lost can tell Of the grief that borne in silence For the one we loved so well.

Precocity.

In congress they tell this story of a certain youthful, but successful representative. This gentleman's self-confidence has always been most marked, a dominant characteristic even of his extreme youth.

When he was about eight years old, he decided to take a job during his school vacation, and accordingly sought work in a grocery. After he had been there a week or so his uncle meeting the older grocer, asked:

"Well, how are you getting on with William at the store?"

"I seem to please him," said the old grocer with a smile. "I seem to please him."

Margaret Firefall, widow of the late Joseph Watzka, died Sunday in this city. The funeral will be held from the late residence at East Kingston Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock and at 10 o'clock from St. Colman's Church, East Kingston, where a requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery, this city.

The funeral of Sister M. Marie, O. S. B., was held this morning at the Benedictine Hospital at 9 o'clock, where a solemn Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Father Leonard of Esopus Monastery, assisted by the Rev. Father deKrom as deacon and the Rev. Father Cushman as sub-deacon. The Rev. Charles O'Connor acted as master of ceremonies. The pall bearers were E. T. McGill, W. F. Rafferty, J. F. Dwyer, T. J. Murray, Joseph Hurley and R. Howard. During the services St. Mary's choir under the direction of Professor Rieser assisted in singing the divine office and Miss Loretta C. Neeter sang "Pie Jesu." Fathers deKrom and Leonard conducted the communal services at St. Mary's cemetery, where the body was interred in Benedictine Sisters' plot.

The funeral of Mrs. Emily Decker Palmer, widow of the late Dr. Frank F. Palmer and daughter of the late Alexander Decker and Mary Hamilton Decker, his wife, was held this morning from the funeral chapel of A. Carr & Son on Pearl street at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Palmer was born in Kingston eighty-nine years ago. In her young womanhood she ranked among the belles of the social life of this city. Mrs. Palmer never lost her charm of manner or unfailing courtesy, and was a woman of culture, well-informed. Directly after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Palmer went to Ellenville where they made their home until the time of Mr. Palmer's death, and Mrs. Palmer has many friends both in Ellenville and Kingston, who will sincerely miss her entertaining companionship. Mrs. Palmer was a cousin of Miss Delia Van Keuren and the late James G. Van Keuren, is survived by no immediate relatives.

The funeral services which were held this morning were officiated at by the Rev. Charles G. Ellis, who has long known Mrs. Palmer. When living in Kingston Mrs. Palmer attended the First Reformed Dutch Church. Mr. Ellis paid an appropriate tribute to one who "was always a lady." The interment was in the family plot in the Ellenville cemetery.

Mystery of Trees.

One of the most puzzling questions in botany is, "Why or how does water rise to the top of a tree?"

Various explanations of the phenomenon have been proposed, but none is regarded as altogether satisfactory. One investigator attacked the problem by means of interesting and novel experiments. For instance, he constructed an artificial tree of plaster of paris and found that water moved upward in it more than 40 feet high. Yet he was unable to base any definite conclusion upon the results that he obtained. The water travels a large part of the way in a film, between bubbles on the one side and the wall on the other. But the physical properties of the film are yet unknown.—Washington Star.

Shower for Miss Overbaugh.

The Ridgewood, N. J., Herald says: A surprise miscellaneous shower was given Miss Ethel Overbaugh at her home, 64 Kenilworth Place, on Saturday evening, by a number of her girl friends. The double garage on the place was the scene of the festivities and was gaily trimmed in orange and black, crepe paper, in anticipation of Halloween, with plenty of cornstarch and jack o'lanterns to maintain the atmosphere. The large basket containing the assortment of pretty and useful gifts was decked with orange and black, each present being tied with orange ribbons at the end of which hung Halloween witches ingeniously made of peanuts. There was dancing until midnight and refreshments were served. Among the guests were Miss Ruth Hogan of Kingston; Miss

Green Peas Cause Divorce.

It would seem hardly credible that the eating of green peas could supply grounds for divorce, but some few years ago at the Pathological congress held in Paris curious statements were made about vegetables and the effort they produced on the human race.

Haricot beans, which we heard so much of in war time, were supposed to give brain and brawn, spinach would prevent dawdling in the household, but green peas were to be taboo, for it was said that they developed frivolity and made women capricious and reckless. Men and women flirted under their influence, and the pathologists attributed a majority of the divorce cases to the eating of peas.

Famous Woman Life Saver.

Ida Lewis, the American life saver, was born at Newport, R. I., in 1841. By a special act of congress she became keeper of the Light Rock lighthouse, Newport harbor, of which her father had been keeper for many years. Expert at the oar and in swimming she saved twenty-two lives between 1867 and 1894, receiving medals from the United States government, the Humane society of Massachusetts and the Life Saving Benevolent society of New York. Her boat, the Rescue, presented to her by the citizens of Newport, was exhibited at the Columbian exposition, Chicago, in 1893. Her death occurred in 1911.

Germany's Industrial Beehive

Electric Welding in Essen.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)
Once more the Ruhr valley, Germany's beehive of industry, has come to the fore in world interest, with the suggestion that France may seize this region to force the payment of reparations.

Essen's Sudden Rise.

"Boom" towns of mushroom growth are not peculiar to America, as a startling rise of Essen proves. This founded away back in the Ninth century, it slumbered along for hundreds of years, an obscure, unimportant let. Even as late as 1850 it had only more than 10,000 people. Then Krupp boom—the rise of the great machine shop the world has ever seen—struck it, and today the city has half a million.

Set in the heart of the coal field crowded with endless industrial plants whose tall chimneys belch smoke and fumes, the great workshop fairly throbs with power and energy. The roar and rattle of ceaseless work and the din of giant hammers pounding on metal seem to keep the whole town a-tremble.

Here every form of iron and steel article is made, from boys' skates and giant marine engine shafts. Curiously enough, even some of the smallest of the fumes from the smokestacks is caught and converted into a gas that furnishes more power to run the mills.

More than a hundred years ago the first Krupp set up his small, one-shop and began to make by hand the tools, the drills and chisels, used by tanners, blacksmiths and carpenters along the Ruhr and the Rhine. He so made dies for use in the mint of the government. Within 30 years, to the old ambition for expansion Krupp tools were known and used far away as Greece and India.

Then came the great era of mass production in steam engines, human steel tires for railway cars, cast-iron shafts for river and ocean steamers and finally that astonishing output of guns and armor plate which brought the militaristic nations of the world to buy at Essen.

The daily roar of artillery at proving grounds, where each new weapon was tested, added to the din of whistles, rushing trains and rattling gears, made the Ruhr probably the noisiest place on earth. It is noisy enough now, but the great guns of silent Krupp makes them no more. The big lathes that once made parts for every nation, from Chile to China now turn out shafting for marine engines. Box cars for Belgium car wheels for South America. The whole train-line systems for the East Indian were some of the only being filled a few months ago.

Everybody Is a Worker.

This Ruhr is pre-eminently the land of labor. Everybody works, nearly everybody works with his hands. An army of chemists, engineers, technical men is employed, of course, but they form merely a small element of the grimy, dusty, sweaty population that keeps the coal moving, the furnaces roaring, and the big machines turning.

The population, variously estimated at from three and one-half to four millions, is not easy to determine, because thousands come and go as tide of trade rises and falls; and where is the world-wide house where age more keenly felt than in the densely populated area. About one of the mines the government has set up temporary barracks where the sands of miners are housed.

In the more picturesque and crowded spots of the Ruhr the old lords of industry have reared the stately and spacious homes; but the new groups of workers in Charleroi, Düsseldorf, or Wiesbaden, are found. Hundreds are here who are retired, but they are the aged pensioned workmen, doing odd jobs in the clean, cozy colonies for them in cities like Essen.

A tiny speck on the map is heated, smoking, Ruhr, but big as a cinder, in the world's eye—a that Caesar knew, a high spot in region old in history.

Geographically, the Ruhr district lies chiefly in the province of Westphalia, bounded on the west by the Rhine. A small section of its area, however, including the city of Essen, flows over into the Rhine province. Physically, it forms a part of the great sandy plain of northwest Germany, merging with what geologists call the "Gulf of Cologne." Its climate is mildly oceanic, with the heaviest rainfall in July.

Plunging suddenly into this teeming industrial field on the train, rise from Cologne to Berlin, and passing through Düsseldorf, where 150 trains a day puff in and out, you are amazed at the solid procession of busy towns, at the almost endless forest of chimneys, and the pall of smother smoke that hangs over the flat, unattractive country.

In this small but highly mineralized region, where men have dug coal for 600 years, over 400 concerns now operate mines for hold concessions for their exploitation. And the Ruhr in-
